the prince and the pauper part 2 large print by mark twain tom canty left alone in the prince s cabinet made good use of his opportunity he turned himself this way and that before the great mirror admiring his finery then walked away imitating the prince s high bred carriage and still observing results in the glass next he drew the beautiful sword and bowed kissing the blade and laying it across his breast as he had seen a noble knight do by way of salute to the lieutenant of the tower five or six weeks before when delivering the great lords of norfolk and surrey into his hands for captivity tom played with the jewelled dagger that hung upon his thigh he examined the costly and exquisite ornaments of the room he tried each of the sumptuous chairs and thought how proud he would be if the offal court herd could only peep in and see him in his grandeur he wondered if they would believe the marvellous tale he should tell when he got home or if they would shake their heads and say his overtaxed imagination had at last upset his reason at the end of half an hour it suddenly occurred to him that the prince was gone a long time then right away he began to feel lonely very soon he fell to listening and longing and ceased to toy with the pretty things about him he grew uneasy then restless then distressed suppose some one should come and catch him in the prince s clothes and the prince not there to explain might they not hang him at once and inquire into his case afterward he had heard that the great were prompt about small matters his fear rose higher and higher and trembling he softly opened the
